NO STALLINGS DAY

Braves' Leader Is Superstitious and Declines to Be Honored.

BOSTON, Sept. 23. - Having honors thrust upon one is a more or less popular outdoor amusement with baseball manigers, but news of the object of these enthuslastic demonstrations refusing to be honored comes as a distinctly new bulletin on the page of Time. In this case it is George Stallings who has set precedent by the ears, so to speak, and despite the lamentations of the grateful fans of Boston, has refused to stand for a Stallings day at the local ball park.

Stallings declares he is afraid any such relebration of the success which has attended the team would react in the nature of a jinx, and every baseball fan of any sense understand. sense understands the gravity of this declaration enough to realize Stallings' logic is irrefurible. Accordingly, the purse which had been collected by the fans to stand the expense of a fitting acknowledgement of what Stallings is doing to from the sales of commercial paper "on the Street." A member of a firm handling this form of security was asked today to explain the situation.

"In a time like this," he said, "the wise merchant, who has built up his credit over a period when it was least needed, instead of bothering his own bank, which might be none too glad to welcome him just now as a borrower, will go as usual to his commercial paper broker. The notes are made to fall due a few months hence when things may have a roster hue and when at least the merchant will have money coming in from his quick assets.'

"But how does the transaction increase the funds in Philadelphia banks?" he was asked. "Well in the first place the merchant was kept from being a borrower. In the next place the money obtained by him was used to create a very welcome balance instead of a loan at his own bank; and the actual cash came into Philadelphia from the sale of the paper by the broker for the most part to country banks which are relatively very strong at the present time.

The purchase by Mark Haller of lot northwest corner of Third and Porter streets, extending from Third to Fourth street and from Ritner to Porter street, from the Girard estate, estates of Anna T. King and John H. McNeill, is by far one of the most important transactions in the 29th Ward, and the aggregate cost was $62,800.

The sale of portion belonging to the estate of Stephen Cirard, confirmed by the Orphans' Court, after statement by the trustees, was owing to the fact "that it was far removed from other realty of the Glrard estate and cannot be adapted for the kind of Improvement that the estate is engaged in," such as the operation at 20th and Porter streets. now extending to 21st street, and in which the supply is far short of the demand creating a very substantial

The section has a main sewer running cast on Shunk street from Broad street to Weccacoe avenue until it meets the plant of the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing Company. It runs south to Oregon avenue and east to the Delaware River. The grades of streets in that section are to be changed to accommodate its opera-tions. This, with laterals, will allow the building up of all that land lying north of the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks and between Broad street on the west and Swanson street on the east. Car service will be extended to meet the situation. This section bids fair to be the theatre of coming activity along real estate ted lines. McFerran street and Thirteenth street will be opened by dedication, making a public improvement at this point.

This is an extremely well-built-up and busy section, near lines of the Richmond Branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway and industrial establishments incident thereto; it is also favored by nu-merous car line routes in every direction. An operation of 43 dw-llings is planned. This piece of real estate is practically the last piece of ground which can be acquired in the neighborhood of Broad street and Eric avenue, the nearest large holding west of Old York road being along
